Each time a creature hits you with an attack roll during the Rite's duration, roll a d6 for each duplicate you have remaining. If any of the d6s roll a 3 or higher, one duplicate is hit instead of you, and that duplicate is destroyed.

On a failed save, you also always know the target's location until the spell ends, but only while the two of you are on the same plane of existence. On a failed save, a creature takes 8d6 Mind damage, and its thoughts become muddled for 10 rounds. While muddled, it subtracts 1d6 from Attack Rolls, Ability Checks, and Constitution saving throws made to maintain Concentration.

At the end of each of its turns, the creature may repeat the Intelligence saving throw, ending the muddled effect on itself on a success.

On a successful save, a creature takes half as much damage and suffers no additional effects.

You call upon a Patron that sees through distance, flesh, and stone. Choose one creature on the same plane of existence as you. The target must make a Wisdom saving throw, modified by how well you know the target and what physical connection you have to it. The target does not know what is watching it, only that something vast and unseen has turned its attention toward it.

Your Knowledge of the Target Is ...	Save Modifier

You Have the Target's ...	Save Modifier
Picture or other likeness	-2

On a successful save, the target is not affected, and you can't perform this Rite on it again until after a Long Rest.

On a failed save, the Patron opens an invisible, intangible eye within 10 feet of the target. For the duration, you can see and hear through the eye as if you were there. The target must make a Strength saving throw.

On a failed save, the target takes 2d6 Bludgeoning damage and gains the Restrained condition. On a successful save, the target takes half as much damage and suffers no additional effects.

At the end of each of its turns, a Restrained creature can repeat the saving throw, ending the condition on itself on a success.

The tendril remains in its space for the duration. If the tendril is not currently Restraining a creature, a creature that enters a space within 5 feet of it for the first time on a turn, or starts its turn there, must make the saving throw against this Rite. On a failed save, the creature takes 2d6 Bludgeoning damage and becomes Restrained by the tendril.

If a creature dies while Restrained by the tendril, Yog-Sothoth claims its victim. The creature and everything it carries vanish into the void between the stars, and the Rite immediately ends.

A creature must also make this save when it enters the area for the first time on a turn or ends its turn there. A creature makes this save only once per turn.

A Restrained creature can take an Action to make a Strength (Athletics) check against your Rite save DC, ending the condition on itself on a success.

Hidden Truths

CALL STARBORN HORROR

Level 9

Type: Summoning Rite

Performing: Action

Range: 120 feet

Duration: 5 rounds

You tear open reality and call forth a true Starborn Horror, a servant of the outer dark that was never meant to enter the mortal world.

On a failed save, a creature takes 10d10 Mind damage, suffers 10 Madness, and gains the Frightened condition for the duration.

On a successful save, a creature takes half as much damage and suffers 5 Madness.

Each other creature that can see or hear the Starborn Horror suffers 4 Madness.

You suffer 10 Madness when you perform this Rite.

The Starborn Horror uses the Starborn Horror stat block. It is not friendly to you or your allies, nor is it inherently hostile to your enemies. The Horror acts according to its own unknowable will.

At the start of each of its turns, roll on the Starborn Horror Behavior Table to determine which action it takes. When determining targets, use your Madness die system.

The Starborn Horror disappears when the Rite ends.
